

DOMUS NOVA

Can Nikki, Cala Vadella
For 10 guests

A hilltop refuge. Low-slung, Japanese interiors give way to Zen gardens, an outdoor gym and al fresco living areas.

Spot the telltale minimalism of house-music pioneer turned interior designer Gianfranco Bortolotti in this five-bedroom villa. He was heavily influenced by Japanese style when reconceptualising this hilltop home in Cala Vadella – and it shows in the balance of volume, materiality and colour.

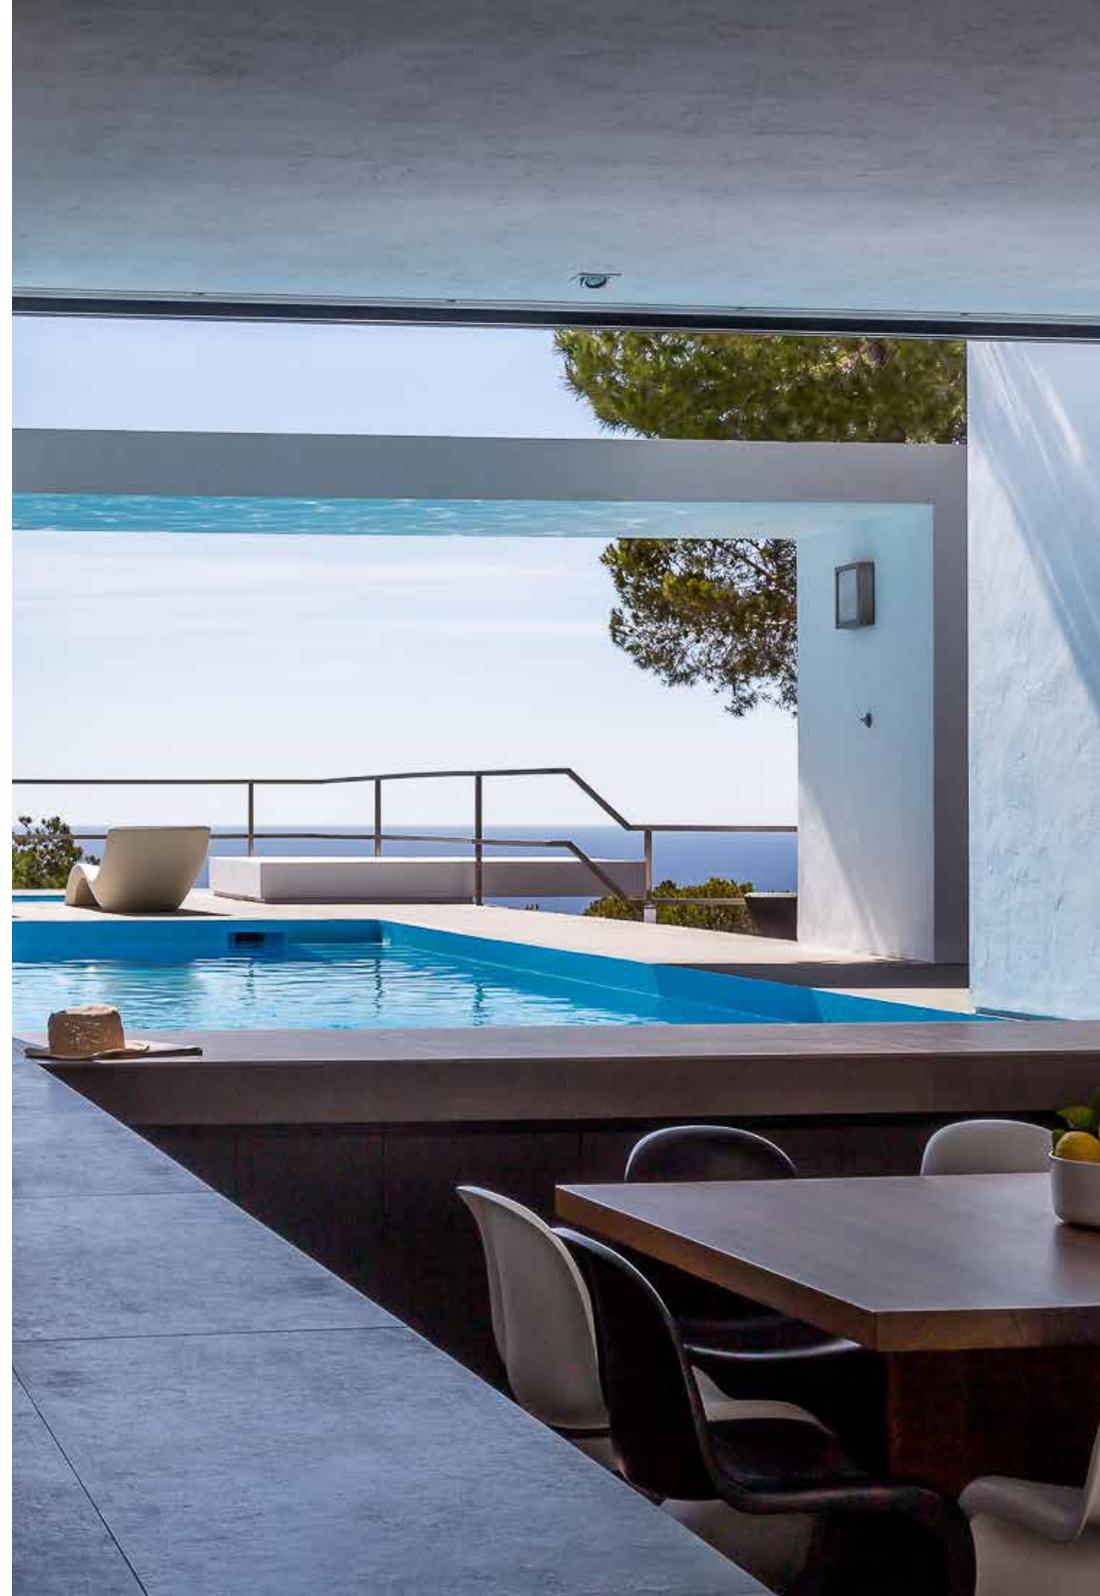

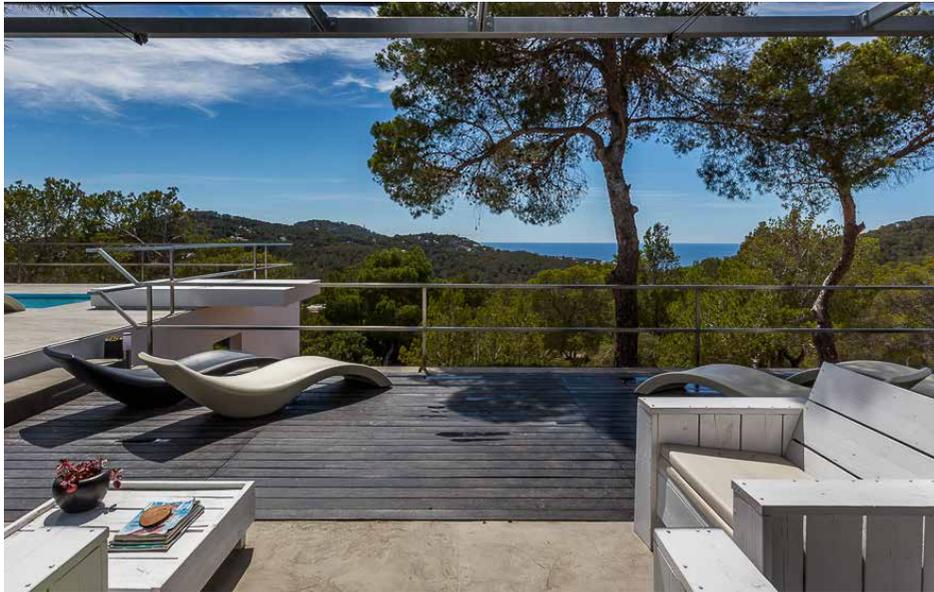

Inside, earthy tones and low-slung, clean-lined design makes a feature of designer silhouettes and almost wall-to-wall views of the surrounding countryside. Expect a backdrop of horizon vistas as you tuck into meals around the sunken dining area.

Breathe deep as you follow walkways threaded between the Zen gardens. Al fresco living areas invite you to dip between sun, shade and pool.

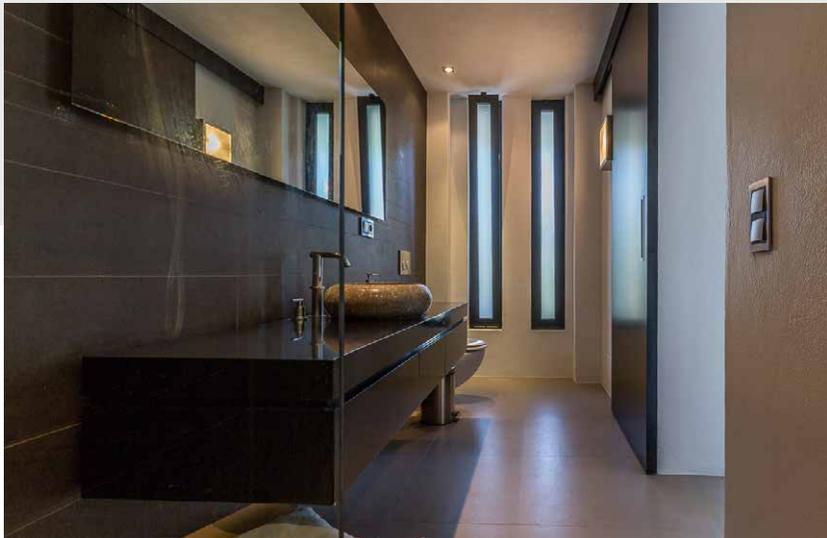

Outside: a large, teak-wood terrace lets you soak up views across this lush inlet – no neighbours in sight. Breathe deep as you follow walkways threaded between the Zen gardens. Al fresco living areas invite you to dip between sun, shade (preferably on a Richard Schultz lounger) and pool. A few lengths, perhaps. Or a few sessions in the sheltered outdoor gym as the sea breeze rolls in over the hills. This is a place to be as active or as relaxed as you like.

Fire up the barbecue with friends and family before sloping off to bed. Spread across the main villa and guest house, each private room is a place of calm seclusion. The sprawling master suite stands out with a private terrace, sky-lit twin vanities and a hydromassage shower. Plus a jacuzzi carved into the ground. Winding down has never been so easy.

Location

Can Nikki is located on the eastern side of the road that links Cala D'Hort and Cala Vadella – a peaceful, yacht-dotted bay backed by pine-clad hills. The countryside is your closest neighbour here, and the sunset views are spectacular. Within a 10-minute drive, rub shoulders with locals in the village of San José – at its best when the ecological market sets up on Saturday. In the same time you can be hiking Sa Talaia (the mountaintop views are worth the climb) or soaking up views of Es Vedrà from pretty Cala d'Hort.
